What is AACSB International Accreditation?

AACSB International—The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business is the world’s largest business education network connecting students, academia, and business to advance business education worldwide.

AACSB International provides quality assurance of business school programs, the latest in business education intelligence, thought leadership, and professional development services.

Founded in 1916, AACSB is a global association of more than 1,500 member organizations in over 90 countries and territories, with headquarters in North America, Asia Pacific, and Europe. With more than 760 business schools accredited worldwide, AACSB ensures the highest quality standard in business education to prepare the next generation of business leaders.

The mission of AACSB International is to foster engagement, accelerate innovation, and amplify impact in business education.

The vision of AACSB International is to transform business education for global prosperity.

AACSB and UMFBA

Our faculty has reached a critical stage in obtaining AACSB International Accreditation with an on-site Peer Review Team visit scheduled in November 2018.

FBA Mission

Our mission is to develop and apply business knowledge through research and to disseminate knowledge through interactions with students, faculty members, industry, and other key stakeholders. Through our programmes we develop professionals in traditional and emerging areas of business, and for the international integrated resort industry. Why is AACSB Accreditation Important to You?

Employers want quality business graduates from quality business schools—graduates they know will perform on day one. This is why it is so important to choose an AACSB-accredited business degree program that will teach you the knowledge and skills employers require.

AACSB-accredited schools are considered to be the best business schools in the world. Their undergraduate, master's, and doctorate degree programs have passed rigorous standards for quality. AACSB-accredited schools have better programs, better faculty, better students with higher overall GPAs, more international students, more employers that recruit from them, and graduates that receive better salaries.

AACSB-accredited schools

- are recognized worldwide by top employers and other universities.
- have employers that only hire their graduates.
- have more access to recruiters.
- have graduates that receive higher, more competitive salaries.
- say being accredited improves the quality of their business programs.
- say being accredited helps them hire and retain the best professors and researchers.
- have students that are more international and are likely to earn higher levels of education.
- have students with high-graduating GPAs
- are challenging and teach the best skills that give a distinct advantage in the real world.

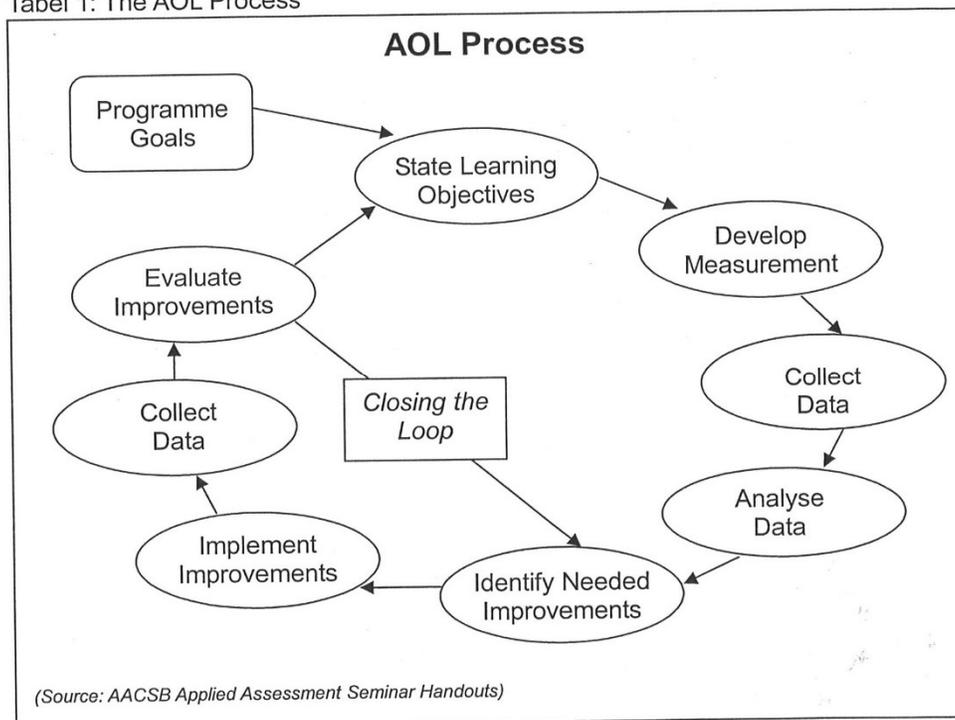

AACSB Assurance of Learning (AoL) Standards

AACSB AoL Standards evaluate how well does the school accomplish the educational aims at the core of its activities. Schools should assure the continuous improvement of student learning by establishing the AoL process.

■ The AoL process includes:

1. Establishing student learning goals and objectives
2. Aligning curricula with adopted goals
3. Identifying assessment instruments and measures
4. Collecting and analyzing the assessment data, and disseminating the results
5. Closing the loop by using the assessment results for continuous improvement

Tabel 1: The AOL Process

■ Assessment of Student Learning

Assessment of student learning is acknowledged by the AACSB AoL Standards as part of the curriculum management process, and involves weighing student performance against the learning goals systematically and regularly. This on-going documentation process aims at understanding and improving student learning by measuring the learning outcomes in terms of knowledge, skills, attitudes and beliefs. Such assessment-based pedagogy yields useful feedback for both teaching staff and students, and makes learning visible.

■ Direct Assessment of Learning

AACSB AoL Standards focus on direct assessment of learning which evaluates student performance according to the programme's learning objectives. Examples of direct assessment tools includes:

- Course-embedded measures – e.g. case analysis presentation, course assignment, test/ examination
- Demonstration through stand-alone test or performance – e.g. thesis/ project, simulation game
- Selection process – e.g. student admission criteria

■ Direct Assessment Standards – Rubrics

Rubric is a scoring tool used to evaluate student performance based on a full range of specific standards established to determine the levels of acceptable performance of student learning. It clearly defines the acceptable of unacceptable levels of performance and students can develop, revise and judge their own work according to the key criteria of work at each level of performance. The data collected by the rubrics will be used to assess student performance against the programme's learning objectives and goals.

■ Continuous Programme Improvement

The most critical step in the AoL process is using the assessment data to “close the loop”, i.e. to improve programmes. AACSB standards specify a “systematic process” to ensure that all learning goals are assessed to support meaningful curricula modification and development. Each learning goal has to be evaluated at least twice over a five-year AACSB revise cycle. The loop of AoL could be closed by regular revision and assessment of programme improvement.
